

Brent Lessard
Co-Founder

About Talla

Talla is a new kind of knowledge base that combines AI, automation, and chatbots to equip customer-facing teams with the right information, when they need it. Talla ensures that your content is always accurate, complete, and available.

rLoop Gives Team Better Information and Increases Engagement with Talla // Talla has saved us time, increased team member engagement, and helped us build a culture of information sharing.

Why rLoop Chose Talla

"At rLoop, we have nearly 1,300 team members spread across 59 different countries working on building the future of transportation. We've seen a direct correlation between the ability to access information quickly and team member engagement, and Talla has helped us improve both.

"With Talla, we're able to provide team members immediate access to information that previously may have taken an individual hours to find given the highly-technical, complex work we do. Onboarding new team members across different time zones used to be a time-intensive, repetitive, and challenging process. We've been able to cut our onboarding time in half by automating it and using Talla to answer repetitive questions."

"Talla greets each new team member on their first day with helpful information on current projects, the systems we use, and our culture. Talla has saved us time, increased team member engagement, and helped us build a culture of information sharing within our organization."